

Study question for Wagner 2012

Wagner, Michael. 2012. Locality in phonology and production planning. In A McKillen & J Loughran (eds.), Proceedings of the Montreal-Ottawa-Toronto (MOT) Phonology Workshop 2011. Phonology in the 21st Century: In honour of Glyne Piggott. McGill Working Papers in Linguistics 22(1).

Question

Pick any phenomenon discussed in the paper where you can imagine the OT analysis.

- Show two tableaux for what the grammar would look like if the phenomenon is sensitive in the grammar to domains.
  - For example, a tableau for /... reading the .../ (→ in') and one for /... reading, the .../ (→ ing)
- Then show two tableaux (maybe needing a sentence or so of explanation each) for how things would look if sensitive to domains comes purely through speech planning
