Undergraduate Research and Travel Award UCLA LINGUISTICS DEPARTMENT Proposal Application

Applicant name
Email address	Year (e.g. Senior)
Have you received a Research and T	Travel Award from us before? (If so, when?)
Faculty sponsor
b b 1	send a sponsorship email (see below) jects, I have received IRB approval or exemption (see below)
Project name
Project description (500 characters max)

Proposed budget

Budget justification (500 characters max)

Faculty sponsor email

Please ask your faculty sponsor to email Pat Keating (keating@humnet.ucla.edu) and Sun-Ah Jun (jun@humnet.ucla.edu) in support of your application. Their email should include:

- Your name
- Your project title
- A description of their advising relationship to you
- A few sentences in support of your application

IRB approvals or exemptions

The IRB is the "Institutional Review Board", the formal body that regulates what we can do with research participants. While it does not require an application from linguistics studies relying on consultants providing expert knowledge about language, it does require an application for approval or exemption from a wide variety of other linguistics research projects involving human subjects. If you have questions about the IRB, please consult with the Language Lab manager (currently Victoria Mateu at victoria.e.mateu@gmail.com).

Funding

These awards are generously funded by gifts to the UCLA Phonetics Lab from former undergraduates Cheng & Loke Tan, and Vernon Austel.

Other questions

These applications are reviewed by the Phonetics Lab Director (currently Pat Keating, at keating@humnet.ucla.edu) and the Director of Undergraduate Studies (currently Sun-Ah Jun, at jun@humnet.ucla.edu). Please email them with any questions.